When Titanic came out in 1997 it was the most expensive movie ever made. It cost more than $200 million! First, $2 million was spent when the director, James Cameron, went to look at the real Titanic-four kilometres underwater on the sea floor! Then a nearly life-size model of the ship was made in a huge tank which held 77 million litres of water! The model was designed with the help of drawings of the real Titanic. A huge film studio was built in Mexico. Filming was extremely expensive, and underwater cameras were used for many of the scenes. The actors were frozen after hours in the cold water and star Kate Winslet said she was nearly killed.

When the film was finished, it lasted four hours! Cameron was told that it was too long, so it was cut to three hours and 15 minutes. Finally Titanic was shown in cinemas all over the world, and was a great success. It was seen by millions of people.

Choose the correct answers for the following questions: (2 marks for each correct answer)

Read the following passage then answer the questions (1 to 5)

When Titanic came out in 1997 it was the most expensive movie ever made. It cost more than $200 million! First, $2 million was spent when the director, James Cameron, went to look at the real Titanic-four kilometres underwater on the sea floor! Then a nearly life-size model of the ship was made in a huge tank which held 77 million litres of water! The model was designed with the help of drawings of the real Titanic. A huge film studio was built in Mexico. Filming was extremely expensive, and underwater cameras were used for many of the scenes. The actors were frozen after hours in the cold water and star Kate Winslet said she was nearly killed.

When the film was finished, it lasted four hours! Cameron was told that it was too long, so it was cut to three hours and 15 minutes. Finally Titanic was shown in cinemas all over the world, and was a great success. It was seen by millions of people.

When Titanic came out in 1997 it was the most expensive movie ever made. It cost more than $200 million! First, $2 million was spent when the director, James Cameron, went to look at the real Titanic-four kilometres underwater on the sea floor! Then a nearly life-size model of the ship was made in a huge tank which held 77 million litres of water! The model was designed with the help of drawings of the real Titanic. A huge film studio was built in Mexico. Filming was extremely expensive, and underwater cameras were used for many of the scenes. The actors were frozen after hours in the cold water and star Kate Winslet said she was nearly killed.

When the film was finished, it lasted four hours! Cameron was told that it was too long, so it was cut to three hours and 15 minutes. Finally Titanic was shown in cinemas all over the world, and was a great success. It was seen by millions of people.

Choose the correct answers for the following questions: (2 marks for each correct answer)

Read the following passage then answer the questions (1 to 5)

When Titanic came out in 1997 it was the most expensive movie ever made. It cost more than $200 million! First, $2 million was spent when the director, James Cameron, went to look at the real Titanic-four kilometres underwater on the sea floor! Then a nearly life-size model of the ship was made in a huge tank which held 77 million litres of water! The model was designed with the help of drawings of the real Titanic. A huge film studio was built in Mexico. Filming was extremely expensive, and underwater cameras were used for many of the scenes. The actors were frozen after hours in the cold water and star Kate Winslet said she was nearly killed.

When the film was finished, it lasted four hours! Cameron was told that it was too long, so it was cut to three hours and 15 minutes. Finally Titanic was shown in cinemas all over the world, and was a great success. It was seen by millions of people.

Choose the correct answers for the following questions: (2 marks for each correct answer)

Read the following passage then answer the questions (1 to 5)

When Titanic came out in 1997 it was the most expensive movie ever made. It cost more than $200 million! First, $2 million was spent when the director, James Cameron, went to look at the real Titanic-four kilometres underwater on the sea floor! Then a nearly life-size model of the ship was made in a huge tank which held 77 million litres of water! The model was designed with the help of drawings of the real Titanic. A huge film studio was built in Mexico. Filming was extremely expensive, and underwater cameras were used for many of the scenes. The actors were frozen after hours in the cold water and star Kate Winslet said she was nearly killed.

When the film was finished, it lasted four hours! Cameron was told that it was too long, so it was cut to three hours and 15 minutes. Finally Titanic was shown in cinemas all over the world, and was a great success. It was seen by millions of people.

Read the following passage then answer the questions (1 to 5)

When Titanic came out in 1997 it was the most expensive movie ever made. It cost more than $200 million! First, $2 million was spent when the director, James Cameron, went to look at the real Titanic-four kilometres underwater on the sea floor! Then a nearly life-size model of the ship was made in a huge tank which held 77 million litres of water! The model was designed with the help of drawings of the real Titanic. A huge film studio was built in Mexico. Filming was extremely expensive, and underwater cameras were used for many of the scenes. The actors were frozen after hours in the cold water and star Kate Winslet said she was nearly killed.

When the film was finished, it lasted four hours! Cameron was told that it was too long, so it was cut to three hours and 15 minutes. Finally Titanic was shown in cinemas all over the world, and was a great success. It was seen by millions of people.

Choose the correct answers for the following questions: (2 marks for each correct answer)

Read the following passage then answer the questions (1 to 5)

When Titanic came out in 1997 it was the most expensive movie ever made. It cost more than $200 million! First, $2 million was spent when the director, James Cameron, went to look at the real Titanic-four kilometres underwater on the sea floor! Then a nearly life-size model of the ship was made in a huge tank which held 77 million litres of water! The model was designed with the help of drawings of the real Titanic. A huge film studio was built in Mexico. Filming was extremely expensive, and underwater cameras were used for many of the scenes. The actors were frozen after hours in the cold water and star Kate Winslet said she was nearly killed.

When the film was finished, it lasted four hours! Cameron was told that it was too long, so it was cut to three hours and 15 minutes. Finally Titanic was shown in cinemas all over the world, and was a great success. It was seen by millions of people.
